Development Education «--> Non Formal Education

«--> Popular Education
Development Education «---> Non Formal Education «---> Popular Education

Development Education

Background: Empowerment; promoting critical thinking; awareness.

Schools of Thought: Interpendences; North - South relations; global issues; global approach and so on...

Content: Intercultural education; global education; non formal education; popular education and so on...

Non Formal Education

Background: Equality, alternative education, life long learning, learning through experience, civil society, free participation (?)..

Schools of Thought:

Content: Collective process, diverse and plural, cooperativ outside formal education system, active participation, trainers as facilitators, “organic”.

Common outputs:

Social changes, empowerment, social responsibility

Popular Education

Background: Social, cultural and economic injustices; oppression; non - violence.

Schools of Thought: issue - based; community - based; awareness raising; progressive; political, arts; theatre

Content: Information, Education, Communication – Campaigns, Formal Education

Outputs and outcomes: hospitals, schools, community organisations, cultural and economic changes.
Questions that arose from the discussion

What are the links between formal and non formal education?

Is non formal education only a methodology of work?

Could we have Development Education in formal way?

Could we have Popular Education in a formal way?

Could Non Formal Education replace formal education? If yes, should it?

What about Global Education?